Mr. Gorman then gave his attention to the statement of Mr. Lodge that a large may was a conservator of peace, saying that this declaration was contrary to the conviction of the fathers. He differed from Mr. Lodge in considering this an aggressive nation. He hoped the time would scoon come when the people would return to the Demecratic-Republican destrine that our power was not measured by the number of guns affost nor by the number of uniforms we had.

No matter what nation might secure supremacy in that country, the Inited States would secure its share of its commerce. Closing, Mr. Gorman said: "Now in the face of a great election the situation could not be changed if we should attempt to do it, and I don't believe it would be wise to change it if we could do so, for that would bring the navy into politics. could do so. That I do not think we should do."

Mr. Carmack agreed with Mr. Hale that if China should fall under the dominion of Japan, it would be very doubtful whether the United States would derive any advantage from it. Mr. Carmack read an extract from a newspaper saying that $435,000 had been expended for the purpose of keeping two pleasure yachts, the Maylower and the Sylph in condition for the President's use. This, he contended, was a misappropriation.

Mr. Bacon asked what evidence had been furnished Congress that Guantanamo, Cuba. had been ceded to the United States. Mr. Hale knew of no actual cession, but, he said, the United States was in possession. Mr. Bacon insisted that there should be a cession, and Mr. Hale produced a lease. This Mr. Bacon declared was nothing less than a treaty, and should have been each to the Senate in the usual way and ratified. He said ho wished to criticise not in an offensive sense, but to object to this usurpation of power by the Executive.

Mr. Nelson replied to Mr. Hale, saying that if there was any violation of the principles of resurality on his part there was an equally marked violation by Mr. Hale on the other side. Mr. Nelson said he had not intended to imply that the United States should take any other than a neutral position in the Oriental war. He did conterd, however, that we should take all proper steps to protect our commerce in the Oriental. Mr. Nelson declared that Japan could be depended upon to maintain the open door.

Tribute to Whitney.

(From Our Regular Cerrespondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 5.—Senator Martin made a strong speech in the Senate this afternoon in support of the nexal appropriation bill. He spoke only about twenty minutes, and followed Senator Clay, of Georgia, who entired it general objection to the bill, but did not specify any particular item to which he was opposed, a fact to which Senator Martin directed attention in the course of his speech.

his speech.
Senator Martin said in the outset that he wished as a member of the Naval Committee of the Senate to speak briefly obt he bill, and mentioned the fact, that when the measure was before the committee there had not been a word of opposition manifested to it. He though it was well to have all the great appropriation bills thoroughly scrutinized and discussed so as to have any improper item. ussed, so as to have any improper item tricken out.

"But no senator has indicated any such item," he said, "and the entire discussion, with the exception of that in regard to the location of the unval training school has been purely academic. Nobody has asked a reduction of the amount apparentially.

school has been purely academic. Nobody has asked a reduction of the amount appropriated."

Alluding to the beginning of the creation of the new navy, Senator Martin scribed the honor of the title of father of the navy of to-day, to William C. Whitney, Secretary of the Navy, under Mr. Chevland, and geclared there was not a man in the limits of the Union who did not believe the money expended in the upbuilding of the navy had been expended in the upbuilding of the navy had been expended wisely. The position of America among the nations of the world demanded that she have a strong navy, and the sensity said, he was utterly unable to so, how find the process.

We hear a great deal about universal peace and arbitration of international difficulties, said Senator Martin, but was anything heard of arbitration when England was ready to go to war with the Boers? England simply took her army and took what she wented.

"There may be such a thing as international morality in theory," declared the senator, "but I have seen very little of the practice."

Senator Martin, continuing, said that the time may soon come when this country would find itself in great need of a stronger ravy than she has now. Two great powers are now grappling for supremacy in the Far East, where we have great interests. France may eventually be drawn into the conflict as the ally of Russia, with whom she has a treaty of alliance already. Great Brit, ain has a similar treaty with Japan, and she too, may become involved in the struggle. It is possible, though he did not think ly probable, that the United States will have trouble before the warends. It was of the highest importance that we be ready for trouble if trouble came. In view of the agreessive spirit manifested by other nations, he was 55-posed to any halt in the upbuilding of our navy.

an artillery brigade.

All that has happened so far, or is going to happen until these forces are in the field, is considered, according to the Russian view, to be nothing more than the prologue of the real drama. The Russians are determined to defend Port Arthur as heroically as they did Sebastopol. No large garrison will be retained there; ten thousand men are as good as one hundred thousand for defense, while the more men, the more mouths to feed. There are enough provisions now to last for eight months.

In audition, there will be a division of Cossacks, with mountain batteries, on the pennsula to oppose jandings and harass the enemy, if they succeed in investing the city.

Viceroy Alexieff still retains his headquarters at Mukder, through which 3,000 or 4,000 soldiers are passing daily to the positions which the main armies will occupy. The Russian plans do not contemplate taking any chances on the score of inferior numbers. By sheer wight to fmen and guns, if nothing else, when the proper time arrives, Russia counts on overwhelming the Japanese and rolling them back through Korea.

And There Were Two Stiff Jumps-The Riders and Those Who Were at Clubhouse.

The winds of March have by no means irled out the February soaked and Janunry and December frozen fleids, which now gape like bottomicss pits before venturesome Deep Run riders. Nevertheless, the scent held well and the pace was fast for yesterday afternoon's run. The hounds threw'off at Young's Pond at :30. The course lay through Bloomingdale, and then by the quarry to Lakeside, over two stiff jumps. A brisk gallon brought the hunt to Warwick's where the fresh sweep of the wind across wide fields gave a rare exhibitation to the riders. Surely the spring, with its long doinyed promises, was in the keen breeze and something of the joy of summer after the dreary slege of winter, filled both hound and horse. They say that they are fully prepared to accept the judgment of the Powers on a comparison of their course in Korea, where they landed troops only after a state of war existed, and upon the written permission of the Emperor of Korea. RUSSIA BEGAN HOSTILITIES.

They deny that Chemulpo was a neutral port after the Japanese landed on February 8th, but whether it was neutral or belligerent, Russia began hostilities there. When the Russian gunboat Korletz steamed out of the harbor of Chemulpo on the afternoon of February 8th, she opened fire on the Japanese squadron, making the opening shot of the war. The Japanese torpedo-boat destroyers answered the fire and discharged two torpedoes before the Korietz retired.

CONFIDENT OF THEIR POSITION. The Japanese are confident of the justice and strength of their original position in the integrity of China and the fairness of their proposal during the negotiations. They are sure from their receip assurances that they had no intention of taking possession of Chinese territory and ardent toll in hospitals and at bedsides made it possible for me to write these books.

The book tells how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. How by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases. I found invariably that where there was a weakness, the inside nerves were weak. Where there was a lack of vitality, the vital nerves lacked power. Where weak organs were found, I always found weak nerves. Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' perves. The inside—the invisible nerves. This was a revelation. Then my real success began. Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen, that would vitalize, these nerves.

That proscription I called a restorative, It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fall to cure one case in each hundred. In the extremely difficult cases, my failures for five years were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to sick ones everywhere was my thought. I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the real right of my discovery, the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative? Then a way came to me—like an inspiration. "I will offer it to the sick on trial. Then they will know I am sincere—that my prescription is unusual."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me. Now by any sick one, Dr. Shoop's Restorative can be taken at my risk. For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk. Send no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near by who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month. Then decide. If you say to the druggist, "it did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost to me. This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubt as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can be
